1. A final rejection was mailed on November 27, 2007. An After Final rejection was mailed on 2/27/08. An appeal brief was filed on 6/2/08, the Applicant's arguments were persuasive.
2. Claims 1-12, 14-38 are allowable for the following reasons below:
3. Prior art fails to disclose or suggest, the service delivery element is a part of the communications network, and providing a secure interface between a feature server that is external to the communication network. Frailong's gateway interface device is in the client network and is not internal to the network. Frailong discloses an interface for interfacing the client user itself, a client computer network. Frailong discloses an interface for connecting a computer system to the Internet and more particularly for enabling the computer system to obtain a transport service for access to the Internet. Thus, Frailong merely teaches a configuring of an interface such as subscriber/client gateway to the Internet. Frailong discloses the external element as an end user computer in a client LAN and is concerned in providing access for that user computer in the LAN to an external network. Frailong discloses the gateway interface device interacting between the LAN and the external communication network. In contrast, the claims disclose the service delivery element in the public communications network that is accessed via public access networks to a device subscribed to the communications network. The access to the service delivery element does not require the configuration functions described by Frailong.

Conclusion

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
